- Make the student sign and read the memo on underloading and DME registration contract.
- For RGEPs and electives
 - Check CRS account of student for the RGEPs taken.
 - Check for the required RGEPs and the subjects s/he has taken.

- For ME subjects:
 - Check for pre- and co-requisites.
 - Check for encouraged and discouraged lists of subjects per year level
- For underloading:
 - Avoid underloading.
 - If the student chose to be underloaded make sure s/he writes a letter that s/he accepts all the repercussions of being underloaded.
 - If the reasons are valid:
 - Make sure s/he signs the memo on underloading.

- Are all enlisted subjects are the one advised?
 - If yes, sign the Form 5 and let the student proceed to the next step.
 - If not, advise the students again.

III. Academic Information

Academic Load

The academic load for undergraduate students is a maximum of 18 lecture units, or 21 units including laboratory, except in programs where the normal semestral load is more than 18 units.

Graduating students with very good academic records may be permitted to carry a heavier load in their last year.

The normal load during midyear term is 6 units; in justifiable cases, the Dean may allow enrollment up to 9 units.

Waiver of Prerequisites

Courses approved by the University Council as prerequisites to others may not be waived.

However, in meritorious cases, students who previously enrolled and fully attended a course that is a prerequisite to another may be allowed to enroll and attend in the latter course for credit without having passed or earned credit for the prerequisite course. Permission shall be granted only upon application by the student. The application shall be accompanied with certification form:

- the student’s instructor in the prerequisite course that the student had fully attended said course, and
- the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs that the student’s failure to pass or earn credit in the prerequisite course was not due to disciplinary action imposed upon him/her.

Each College shall be authorized to grant the permission, and shall act through a Dean’s committee, which shall determine the merit of the application. The said committee shall include the College Secretary.

The student who is granted permission under these rules is required to enroll in the prerequisite course simultaneously with the course to which the former is a prerequisite, or immediately in the next semester.
